Brand Brief

Europe → Gulf money-transfer app · Step 1 of the naming funnel · 10 Nov 2026 · Status: draft for your yes / tweak

1 · THE JOB

What it does	Sends money across borders — mainly from Europe to the Gulf (UAE, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Kuwait, Bahrain, Oman).
Who for	Arabic-speaking people living or working in Europe who pay family, bills and obligations in the Gulf.
Their state of mind	Worried. "Will it arrive? Is it the right amount? Can I trust this company with my family's money?"
Must feel	Trust · Easy · Fast · Premium
Must NOT feel (assumed — confirm)	Cheap / discount · Crypto / risky · Stiff old bank · Gimmicky / cartoonish
Markets & languages	Gulf (Arabic) + Europe (English, plus French, German, Spanish, Italian, Dutch sound-checks — the sending side).
Competitors named	NayaPay, Altras, Cashi, Graishat (as you listed) — plus the category giants users compare against: Wise, Western Union, Remitly, Al Ansari / exchange houses.
Architecture	Standalone brand.
Names you love	Fastran, Maalapp — kept as reference directions, not shortlist slots (see §5).

2 · ONLINESS STATEMENT

> Our app is the only money-transfer app that makes sending money from Europe to the Gulf feel as certain as handing it over in person, for Arabic-speaking families and workers in Europe, because every transfer is tracked, confirmed and explained in their own language — in an era of hidden fees and transfers that vanish for days.

Competitor-swap test: put "Wise" in — it claims cheap and fast, not certainty and Arabic-native care. Put "Western Union" in — it claims reach, not premium calm. The statement holds, so the differentiator is certainty + respect, not just speed or price.

3 · THREE CORE ASSOCIATIONS

1. Certainty
It arrives. You'll know when. Nothing hidden.

2. Swiftness
Minutes, not days — effortless to send.

3. Dignified care
Premium, Arabic-native respect for the sender and the family receiving.

Everything the name and identity do must point to at least one of these — and never contradict "Certainty".

4 · PERSONALITY & VOICE

Traits: Assured · Calm · Warm-premium · Clear · Swift

Voice rule (X, not Y)	Example
Reassuring, not salesy	"Your 500 € arrived in Riyadh at 14:02." — not "Amazing rates!!"
Clear, not technical	"Fee: 2.40 €. They receive 2,031 SAR." — not "FX margin applied".
Respectful, not stiff	Warm Arabic greetings, never bank-letter formality.
Swift, not hasty	Fast flows, but a calm confirmation step before money moves.

5 · YOUR FAVOURITES — FIRST LOOK (knockout signals, not clearance)

Name	Strength	Risk
Fastran	Says speed instantly; easy in Arabic & English.	One letter from Fawran, Qatar's national instant-payment system (central bank). "Fast-" is descriptive → weak trademark; close to FasTrak (US).
Maalapp	Maal = wealth in Arabic — warm, relevant.	Mal* = "bad" in French/Spanish/Italian/Portuguese — your sending markets. Slang connotation in Urdu/Hindi. "-app" limits growth; double letters hurt spelling.

Direction kept: a short, premium name with an Arabic money/speed/trust root that also sounds clean in European languages.

6 · HARD GATES (FAIL ANY → OUT)

- Arabic-safe sound: no names that depend on "p" or "v" (Arabic has neither; they become b / f); pronounceable on first read in Arabic script and Latin.
- Europe-safe meaning: no bad meaning in English, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Dutch.
- Finance-safe: no interest/riba connotation (rate, yield, tenor), no gambling, no misuse of religious terms; avoid regulated words like "Bank" unless licensed as one.
- Not confusable with an existing payment brand or central-bank system (e.g. Fawran, Aani, Jaywan, sarie, Benefit).
- Store-ready: brand ≤ ~12 characters so "Brand: Send Money to the Gulf"-style titles fit 30 characters.

7 · SCORECARD — WRITTEN BEFORE ANY NAMES

Criterion	Weight
Fit with the 3 associations (Certainty first)	3
Distinctiveness in fintech + trademark strength	3
Sound & pronunciation in Arabic + English + European languages (raised from 2)	3
Memorability / spellable after hearing once	2
Room to grow (wallets, bills, other corridors)	1

Store / domain / handle practicality	1
Maximum	65

On your yes (or tweaks): generate 300+ names in four lanes (real brief · "name the competitor" · diversion objects with the same emotional job · Arabic/Latin roots & sound), screen through the gates above, and return a shortlist of 8–12 names in safe ↔ bold pairs as a second PDF.

Not legal advice. Remittance brands are regulated — the company will need payment/e-money licensing (e.g. an EU EMI/PI licence, Gulf central-bank approvals) and the final name must be cleared by a trademark attorney in EU (EUIPO), UK, UAE, KSA and other target countries. Competitor names are as supplied by you.
